

Seattle Storytellers Guild's APRIL ECO-FEST

FEATURING AWARD WINNING STORYTELLER

HEATHER FOREST

with

"EARTHSONG"

Her Musical Monologue on Planetary Ecology

Friday, April 18th - 7 pm Pacific - on Zoom

Register at: <https://bit.ly/SSGAprStoryFest25>

EARTHSONG is a musical monologue about planetary ecology written and composed by storyteller, Heather Forest and directed by Megan Wells. Forest's musical compositions and evocative storytelling take listeners through the cosmological, geological, and anthropological history of life on Earth. Spiced with both science and whimsical humor, it celebrates Mother Earth, inspires reverence for the web of life, and encourages planetary citizenship.

Heather Forest, PhD, is an award-winning storyteller, author and musician. A modern day bard, her dynamic fusion of original music, poetry, and the sung and spoken word brings multicultural folktales to life in the imagination of her listeners. She views storytelling as both a fine art and a powerful tool for positive social change.

A pioneer in the American storytelling renaissance she has appeared in theatres, schools, literature conferences, and major storytelling festivals throughout the United States and abroad since 1975. She is a recipient of the Circle of Excellence Award presented by the National Storytelling Network for her performance skill.

Along with Heather's published books are these award winning story anthologies: Wisdom Tales and Wonder Tales from around the World. Her newest multicultural collection is Ancient and Epic Tales from Around the World.

More about Heather Forest at:
<https://www.heatherforest.com/>

Find us at:
seattlestorytellers.org

